THURSDAY AFTERNOON HALF HOLIDAY DURING JULY-AUGUST PLAN

Merchandise Branch C. of C. Favors Adoption of Proposal

Two important matters were taken up and decided upon at a meeting of the merchandise branch of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon at a luncheon at the Nachusa Tavern. The proposition of closing the business and professional institutions of the city on next Thursday and allow all to go to the city island to assist in the clean up work carried by a unanimous vote. The merchants and professional men will close their business at 11:30 for the balance of the day and go to the island to assist in the work.

Superintendent John C. Reeder of the high school has assured the committee that the high schools will be closed on Thursday afternoon and the students will go to the island and assist in the work.

At yesterday's meeting, petition was presented bearing the signatures of 85 clerks in down town stores, requesting that during the months of June, July and August, the stores be closed at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. This was not favorable to the business men and the Thursday afternoon closing proposition which has been adopted in various other northern Illinois cities was mentioned to take the place of the 5 o'clock hour. A lengthy discussion took place and when a vote was taken a large majority were in favor of closing at 12:30 Thursday afternoons for the remainder of the day during the months of July and August. A canvass of all business and professional men of the city will be made during the week.

Skeleton May Have Been a Missionary With LaSalle Party

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Quincy, Ill., May 22.—The skeleton of what may prove to have been a missionary connected with Joliet or LaSalle expeditions of 1679 was uncovered by recent floods in the Mississippi river at Meyer, Ill., a village 20 miles north of Quincy. The head was missing. Along with the remains, which reposed on a rock slab, were found two silver bracelets and three solid silver crosses, one being stamped "Montreal" and the smaller ones "R. C." The bracelets or wristbands were marked "N. H." There were also a number of ivory beads, presumed to be the remains of a rosary. The bones and the relics were sent to a college at Canton, Mo., today, where an exhaustive research will be made. On first examination of the crosses, and bracelets the college authorities give it as their opinion that remains are those of one of the pioneer missionaries.

PALMYRA SCHOOL ADJUDGED ONE OF BEST IN COUNTRY

The people of the Oak Forest school district, No. 163, in Palmyra, have always been very proud of their standard school but are more proud of late because their opinion has been confirmed. Recently the Wallace Farmer offered a prize for a photograph of the best country school and a photograph of the Oak Forest school was submitted by Miss Alice Erickson, one of the pupils, and to her was awarded the prize. That the school is recognized outside of Lee county and out of the state of Illinois as a school of more than usual equipment and appearance, certainly shows that the opinion of the people of the district rests upon a sound basis.

RECOGNITION OF MEXICAN GOV'T. IS NEW PROBLEM

Washington, May 22.—No report on the death of Carranza had come today from the American embassy in Mexico City and the Associated Press dispatches were the only information before the government.

If Carranza has been killed, the manner of his death may inject an unlooked for element into the question of recognition of the new government in Mexico. When President Wilson declined to recognize Huerta after the killing of Madero and Suarez, he outlined a broad policy that the United States would recognize no government not based on constitutional authority.

If Carranza was killed in a coup d'etat the question of recognition probably will go back to President Wilson's originally outlined policy. If he was killed in battle, it probably would still be a question as to whether the recognition of his successors came within the policy laid down seven years ago.

Polo Lady Found Dead by Husband

Mrs. Olive Chaddock, of Polo, aged about 60, was found dead on the floor of the dining room by her husband, a former Polo grocer, when he went home for dinner yesterday. When Mr. Chaddock first arrived home he thought his wife had gone to some of the neighbors, but as the dinner hour passed and she did not return he started an investigation and found her lifeless body behind a door in the dining room. Death had been caused by heart trouble. Besides her husband the deceased is survived by two sons, Clifford of Riverside, Conn., and Blanchford of Chicago.

BUILDINGS ON PRISON HONOR FARM BURNING

Incendiarism Believed to be Cause of Flames
Joliet, Ill., May 22.—Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin is threatening all buildings at the prison honor farm. Four bunk houses are afire. Flames are spreading to other buildings. Lockport and Joliet fire departments are unable to check the progress of the flames because of lack of water. The convicts are assisting in fighting the fire. No attempt at escape has been discovered although a check had not been made. The new penitentiary in course of construction is not in danger although temporary construction buildings are in the path of the flames.

Corn Market Showed Nervousness Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, May 22.—Although much nervousness manifested itself in the corn market today, wild liquidation appeared to have been halted. Calls for heavily increased margins tended to exercise a sobering effect and there were signs that many influential interests regarded the drastic declines as having sufficiently discounted for at least the time being all bearish conditions. Opening prices which ranged from 2½¢ lower to 3½¢ advance, with July 1½¢ to 1.61 and September 1.52 to 1.53 were followed by slight gains all around and then a general setback to about yesterday's finish. Oats were strengthened by word of liberal export buying. After opening ½¢ off to ¾¢ advance, including July at 85¢ to 86¢, the market hardened somewhat and then eased back. Provisions like grain showed comparative steadiness. Price changes although frequent had no definite trend. Talk of export business in wheat, rye and oats led subsequently to upturns. Increased offerings on the bulge, however, brought about a sharp reaction. The close was unsettled, ¾¢ to 3¢ net lower, with July 1.57½ to 1.58½ and September 1.48½ to 1.50.

Weekly Grain Review.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, May 22.—Huge breaks in prices and tremendous pressure to sell have kept the board of trade in nearly constant turmoil this week. Emergency action taken to end the railroad traffic blockade brought about the severest of the setbacks in grain values but confidence of holders had previously been much disturbed by general credit tightening and by extensive price slashing in department stores throughout the country. Compared with a week ago, corn quotations this morning were 13½¢ to 20½¢ lower, oats down 3¼¢ to 7½¢ and provisions off 50¢ to $2.75.

Before the downward sweep of prices began in the corn market, new record for the season had been reached largely as a result of seeming uncertainty of immediate relief from the scantiness of grain supplies at the chief railroad distributing centers. Then a meeting of the United States labor board in Chicago to deal with the switchmen tended somewhat to pull down corn but the real crash followed the failure of two Kansas banks burdened by unwieldy loans on grain. Ensuing rapid bearish developments were capped by the Interstate Commerce Commission putting the railroads back on a unified working basis. Oats collapsed with corn. Provisions were depressed by the steep descent of grain.

The "Hoosier Beauty" Solves the Servant Question

There are just two classes of people who need the "Hoosier Beauty"—those who have servants—and those who have not.

Those who have servants will find it easier to KEEP HELP, once the Hoosier is installed in the kitchen.

Those who have no servants will find that the Hoosier shortens steps and lightens work—tremendously. It is truly the silent servant with a hundred hands.

A payment today and small weekly payments—have one in your home now.

W. C. T. U. MOTHER'S DAY

The "Mothers' Meeting" of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Meyer, 17th the president, Mrs. Clifford Mison, residing. The devotional service was conducted by Miss Callie Morgan. Vapors letters were read by the secretary, Mrs. Hobbs, and a report showed that the Jubilee fund is not yet emptied. Miss Bessie Mison sang with much expression, "My Mother's Favorite Hymn" and responded graciously to applause with an encore. M. Strock furnished the piano accompaniment for Miss Mison. A number of interesting leaflets were ready for different members, with a citation, "Mother," by Clifford Mison, following. He gave in response to applause, "Sister's Best Friend." Miss Marion Weitzel sang carefully, "Teach Me to Pray," with Miss Lorraine Mison playing the piano accompaniment. Mrs. Street led a discussion, saying, "We should be careful what our children read," and continued the thought with many helpful suggestions. Other members also gave excellent suggestions along this line. Twenty-five members were present and each felt that a very profitable and pleasant afternoon had been spent in attending the meeting.

WILL SCHOOL PICNIC

Miss Julia Brechon, teacher of the Will school, closed her school year with a picnic on the final day, Thursday. The patrons and pupils of the school were present to the number of sixty and a delightful day together was enjoyed. After the picnic dinner, games were enjoyed. Just a glimpse of the menu: Potato salad, sandwiches, baked beans, deviled eggs, pickles, olives, ice cream, cake, cookies, fruit, and lemonade—gives an idea of the excellence of the picnic dinner.

EASTERN STAR MEETING

Six more candidates were admitted into the Eastern Star lodge last evening at the regular meeting of Dorothy Chapter, L. P. RAYMOND and DERKINDEREN

Sister Mary's Kitchen

(Copyright, 1920, N. E. A.)

When getting a meal it's easy to pick things up as you go along if you get in the habit.

A kitchen can get into an awful state of confusion with no place to put anything unless system is used. As soon as a certain dish has served its purpose, it should be washed and put away. And there is time to do it for, until it comes to "taking up," there's no special rush.

For instance, after mixing a salad. When the salad is arranged on plates why not wash the bowl and put it away? The dressing will not have had time to stick and it will wash twice as easily as after it had stood an hour. There will be less to wash after dinner and less in the way while serving.

Menu for Tomorrow.

Breakfast—Halves of grapefruit, fried hominy with maple syrup and coffee.

Luncheon—Veal oysters, health bread, marmalade, tea.

Dinner—Cream of asparagus soup, meat pie, French fried potatoes, spinach salad, meringue pudding with almond custard plain cup cakes, coffee.

My Own Recipes.

A nice way to mold a cereal for frying is to pour it into well buttered or oiled baking powder cans. While baking powder cans have a sharp edge and care must be used in washing them, they are better than coffee cans, for coffee cans have a little roll edge that prevents turning the molded cereal out to slice.

VEAL OYSTERS.

Lean veal cut in pieces the size of an oyster, 1 egg, 1 tablespoon water, Cracker or dried bread crumbs, Salt and pepper.

Cook veal in boiling water to cover till tender. Season with salt and pepper. Dip in crumbs, egg (slightly beaten with water) and crumbs. Fry in hot fat. Deep fat or a frying-pan may be used.

MEERINGUE PUDDING WITH ALMOND CUSTARD.

3 eggs (whites), ¾ cup powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Beat whites of eggs till stiff and dry. Beat in sugar slowly. Add lemon juice drop by drop. Put in mold with hole in the center, set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes. Turn onto a dish and fill center with boiled custard and chopped blanched almonds.

CARRANZA, FLEEING MEX. PRESIDENT, IS SLAIN IN MOUNTAINS

toriano Huerta, the usurper, and his followers.

Simultaneously with General Huerta's coup d'état and the assassination of President Madero, the news went out to the world that General Venustiano Carranza, elected governor of the state of Coahuila in 1911, refused to recognize the usurper and would resist him by force of arms.

"Madero's revolution was political", Carranza is quoted as having said. "Mine is a social one."

Born Dec. 29, 1857

Born of parents in comfortable circumstances in Cuatro Ciénegas, State of Coahuila, December 29, 1857, Venustiano Carranza was educated in the public schools of his native state and later studied law at the Mexican capital. When he was admitted to the bar, however, affection of the eyes prevented him from practicing and he returned to his native State to become a rancher first, then as judge, senator and finally Governor of Coahuila, made Carranza familiar with the agrarian problem, the root of political unrest in Mexico.

Having defied Huerta, Carranza rallied a small band of 600 followers which grew into a sizable army when he won the support of Francisco Villa. Carranza's influence spread rapidly, the military victories of his chief aide, Villa, rallying the various fractions of Northern Mexico around his banner. For a time, however, real progress was slow. Huerta's machinations had embroiled Mexico with the United States and intervention seemed imminent. The killing of W. S. Benton, a British subject, by a staff officer of Villa, further complicated the situation.

Then came Villa's victory at Torreon, the first real success of the war. Carranza was pressing Huerta hard at the A. B. C. conference to discuss the differences between the United States and Huerta was called in Buffalo. General Carranza refused to suspend hostilities and declined to abide by the result of those diplomatic negotiations. The fighting went on with the result that General Huerta resigned the provisional presidency July 15, 1914, and a month later General Carranza made his triumphal entry into Mexico City, Huerta in the meantime having fled to Spain.

Shortly afterward independent revolutions led by Zapata, General Pascual Orozco and others commenced. Dissension between Villa and Carranza which began at the Torreon conference, reached a climax September 23, 1914, when Villa declared war on Carranza. General Alvaro Obregon became Carranza's leading general.

The Villa generals met at Aguascalientes in November, 1914, and, in alliance with the Zapata faction, formed a Conventionist Government. The capital changed hands several times and was finally taken by General Obregon until the summer of 1915.

Villa's Power Curbed

The beginning of the end of the Villa-Zapata party as a military power followed swiftly the heavy defeats of Villa by General Alvaro Obregon. Villa was forced to give up Torreon and concentrate his dwindling ing forces in Northern Chihuahua and Eastern Sonora, making occasional forays and raids which culminated in the attacks on Columbus, N. M., that resulted in the invasion of Mexican territory by General Pershing.

In the diplomatic exchanges that ensued between President Wilson and Carranza, who had been officially recognized as the head of de facto government by the United States in October, 1915, he insisted on the respect by the United States of Mexico's sovereignty and the concession to his government of reciprocal rights of invasion. He maintained his position despite the crisis caused by the clashes between Mexican and American soldiers at Parral and Carrizal but when war seemed unavoidable Carranza succeeded in stemming the tide by his proposal for the appointment of a joint commission to settle the difficulties amicably. The proposal was accepted by President Wilson and the commission resulted in the withdrawal of the American army and the restoration of friendly relations between the two countries.

In the meantime Carranza had called a Constitutional Congress, which accepted most of the reforms he offered outlined. On March 11, 1917, he was elected President. More than 1,000,000 votes were cast for him. He took the oath of office May 1, 1917. Friendly to Germany

In a message to the Mexican Congress following his inauguration as president, Carranza declared Mexico's "strict" neutrality. His note to neutral nations, however, urging them to declare embargoes against all the European belligerents, as a means of ending the war, and the warmth of his language in congratulating Emperor William on the occasion of his last birthday, aroused comment in the United States, as did also the publication of the Zimmerman note, inviting Mexico to take "by conquest" the States of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico in payment for a declaration of war on the United States acting in concert with Japan.

General Carranza was married and formerly lived in Saltillo. One of his daughters, Miss Virginia Carranza, became the wife of General Candido Aguilar.

OBITUARY.

JAMES CHRISTIANCE.

James Christiance was born March 17, 1837, at Malaga Grove, Lee County, Illinois. He enlisted at the first call for volunteers by President Lincoln, was mustered into service as a member of Company C, 13th Regiment, Illinois Infantry at Dixon, Ill., May 24, 1861. He reenlisted, serving four years and nearly three months, was mustered out of service August 15, 1865. Upon the muster out of service of the 13th Regiment, he, with the Veterans and Recruits, was transferred to Company I, 56th Illinois Infantry. He was in the following engagements: Chickasaw, Byou, Miss.; Arkansas Post, Ark.; Jackson, Miss.; Black River Bridge, Miss.; Siege of Vicksburg, Dixon Station, Ala.; Look-out Mountain, Mission Ridge, Tenn.; Ringgold, La., and Madison Station, Ala. He was mustered out of service as a sergeant. He was of a happy disposition, congenial and courteous, always being on the side of the underdog. He was a typical American soldier under fire, was brave and courageous as a lion. He died at his home No. 322 Grant avenue Sunday, May 16th, was buried by members of the Dixon Post, at Amboy, Ill., May 19, 1920. He leaves a widow and eleven children.

Rescind Order to Lay Off 2,500 Men

By Associated Press Licensed Wire
Lynn, Mass., May 22.—The General Electric company which earlier in the week announced its intention of laying off 2,500 employees because of delays in shipment of materials and cancellation of orders today announced that the plant would be operated in full. The shipments have arrived, it was said.

The Metal Trades Council today ordered all constituent unions with members employed in the General Electric shops to take a strike vote on the question of demanding abolition of a time study system by which supervisors with stop watches stand beside the operative.

FRANK O. LOWDEN

THE "PRICE-BREAK"

The much heralded "break in prices" while it apparently is leading to a general drop in the high cost of living, may lead people to be over-sanguine. Many prices may be higher yet before they go down permanently. A Chicago clothier, in an advertisement, has the following to say regarding the price drop:
We have maintained right along that there could be no radical permanent "break" in prices at this time. We have stated this repeatedly in our printed talks about this business. We wanted men to realize, for their own sakes, that present prices were an opportunity that would not last long, and would not soon recur. In this case we always, our advertising was sincerely intended for the benefit of the public as well as of ourselves.

Prices have been high because of world conditions of shortage—shortage in raw materials, shortage in finished products, shortage in transportation facilities, and shortage in all forms of labor which must contribute to the production which alone can overcome all these other shortages. There are no surpluses standing anywhere, or in prospect. The only surplus there has been is the surplus of demand. People have had lots of extra easy money in their lives—and they have been indulging themselves.

The present temporary break in prices was brought about by the action of John Wanamaker in reducing everything 20%. Waiving aside all jossip about his reasons for doing it—much of it, we suspect, inspired by vain regrets that he "beat us to it"—it was a master stroke. But the very fact that his move did not run like wildfire throughout the country and bring everything tumbling down about our ears, instead of merely evoking sporadic responses here and there, is proof enough that it was not related to fundamental, primary conditions. Many followed, of course. Some thought the time had come. But most of those who reduced would have reduced in any case at about this time, and to the same degree and extent. Wholesale prices have not been shaken. There are no more "bargains," no more liquidation of stocks, wholesale or retail, now than there normally are at this time of the year. And we are buying right along, to replace and replenish, at prices as high as, and higher than, those we paid for goods now offered at reductions.

This condition, like other evils, is due entirely to general human selfishness. The cure for it, as well as for any situation that is wrong, is general and practical unselfishness. The laborer has been selfish in wanting more in wages than he was willing to give in creative effort. The producer, the wholesaler, and the retailer have been selfish in holding up profits or in not having the moral courage to reduce them boldly, as Mr. Wanamaker finally did. And the consumer has been selfish in indulging himself, with his surplus money, in things he did not need, thereby absorbing production uselessly.

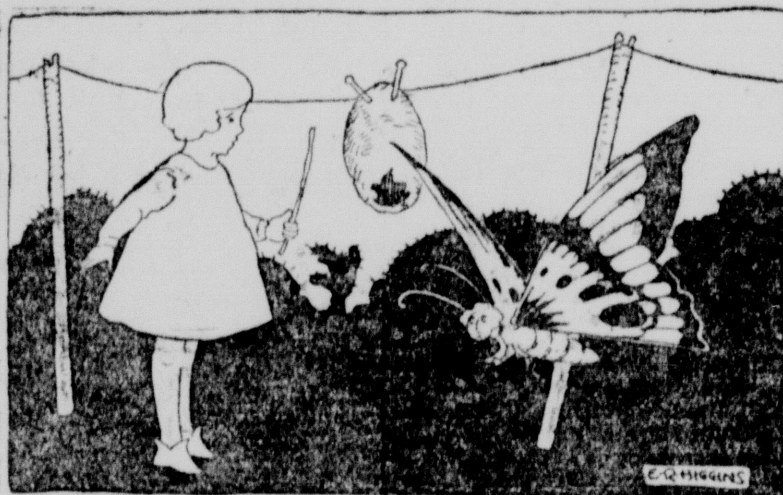

It all goes to show that we are all in the same boat in this life, and that the only way to make things easier for ourselves in the long run is to help make them easier for others in the job at hand. This is no petty theory of smacking of sentimental idealism, but the hardest and most practical fact we have to work with. When we all can see business as a great human service and take our part in it, whatever it may be, with that thought an impelling conviction in our consciousness, this will be a better world, and there will be no more distress from

BRINGING UP FATHER.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

The Pillow's Secret
Nancy pinned the little, white silk pillow that she found in Scrub-Up Land to a clothes line, where Mr. Jolly Sun could sprinkle it with his beams. She thought she would air it and beat it like her mother did the pillows at home and send it with Mr. Redbird to the Land-Where-Spring-is-Coming, so that the birds could get the silk to make comfort for the babies. So she called to Nick to bring her a stout switch.
Whack! went Nancy on the bluntest part of the pillow. "Ouch!" suddenly came a muffled voice from inside. "Don't, please, I'm coming out as fast as I can."
"Goodness," said Nancy dropping the switch in her surprise. "What is it?"
"I'll tell you in a minute," said the voice, "just as soon as I get my head out. Only please send Mr. Redbird away."
Scarcely had Mr. Redbird departed when a head popped out of the pillow, a head with two big, bright eyes. "Here's part of me," it said, "the rest is coming soon." Then two arms and two legs and a long body slowly appeared out of the pillow slip, leaving it quite flat and empty on the line.

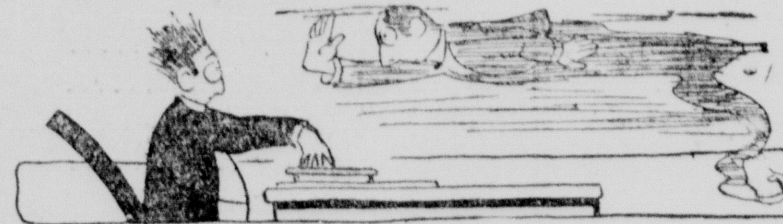

"Mrs. Butterfly!" cried Nancy in amazement. "Oh, didn't mean to hurt you."

"Crawly Caterpillar!" cried Nancy in surprise.
"Guess again!" corrected the creature stretching out in the sun. "But that's what I used to be. You're not so far wrong." It stretched and stretched and yawned, and finally four wings of yellow and blue and purple and gold unfolded from her shoulders.
"Mrs. Butterfly!" cried Nancy in amazement. "Oh, I didn't mean to hurt you."
"Scarcely felt it," laughed gray Mrs. Butterfly trying her wings, because the cocoon was thick. "I'll fly away now to the Land-Where-Spring-is-Coming, but I'll not bother Mr. Redbird to take me."
And she fluttered off on the golden beams of Mr. Jolly Sun.

Smile Awhile
BY LEE HINGSTON

The folks have gone and left me by myself within the house, yes, the movies have bereft me of my daughter, son and spouse, the wind outside is stalking like a giant on his prey and the ouija board is talking, listen what it's got to say: "You will kindly sir, be certain I have come across the mirage, from the ones behind the curtain I am delegate-at-large. I am sent to ask you kindly but directly as I may, please quit calling on us, blindly, we've declared an eight hour day. What's the use of having shuffled off the coil that we abhorred to have dispositions ruffled by the tireless ouija board, by the handwork infernal of some pseudo-psychic pest interruptions are eternal in the mansions of the blest. Just as one sits down to dinner, drinking nectar pure and good, comes a summons from some sinner in the old time neighborhood: just as one is sleeping in a cloud where one has soared, comes the ouija's voice a-calling. O, we're very ouija bored. You have found a way to work us in the drear old earthy way, but the fact begins to irk us that you never think of pay. So till new insight impels you to dehumanize your cash, don't believe what ouija tells you, she can feed you only trash. We are willing to forgo the scale of rates. Every ghost of every faction, from wash-lad to befriended you on the board or with the slates, but give over till we send you our forthcoming scale of rates. Every ghost of every faction, from wash-lad to dukes, has united in this action. Yours, Consolidated, Spooks."

"high prices."
We are all getting there slowly, as any one may see by casting a view back over business for fifty or a hundred years; but we cannot look for the full working out of this truth in a day, and present prices will have to come down under the slow compulsion of suffering rather than under the influence of a better understanding of what we are all for. Meanwhile, we assure you again with earnest conviction that it is a good time to buy at the reduced prices being offered, whether it be here or elsewhere.

MEXICO'S LOSS
President Carranza's overthrow by force of arms is a blow to stabilized government in Mexico. The Carranza administration may have been inefficient, and Carranza's arrogant temperament may have worked harm to Mexico's interests. Nevertheless, the Mexican people should have been allowed their redress at the polls. The militarists have ousted the first adversaries may in turn drive him into exile. Meanwhile, foreign assistance, which is so necessary for Mexico's economic development, will naturally be withheld. The Mexican people have been betrayed by the selfish ambitions of their unpatriotic generals. Until Mexico learns that all domestic political rivalries must be settled by the ballot, conditions resulting from despotism must continue south of the Rio Grande.

BY EPICETUS

Epictetus, the Greek philosopher, said: "Bad actors cannot sing alone; but only in chorus. So some men cannot walk alone. Man, if thou art aught, strive to walk alone and hold converse with thyself, instead of sulking in the chorus! Think, look around thee; bestir thyself that thou mayest know who thou art."
Epictetus lived in the first century A. D. but he might have been addressing some of the many timid fellows of our own time. Speaking in the snappy English of the day, he would have said:
"The trouble with too many of you fellows is that you are afraid of yourselves, is that you don't know yourselves. Get acquainted with yourself, old man! There's a lot more in you than you think."
"You complain that some other fellow who hasn't as much brains as you is getting along much better than you. That's your fault. The other fellow is making good use of all the brains God has given him. You're letting yours rust."

"Dust 'em off! Exercise 'em! Think! Get a move on! Don't be afraid of failure. Don't be afraid of yourself! You've got the stuff in you! It's there waiting to be brought out. Get busy with yourself. Few of us use our brains to their full capacity. We mistake idle dreaming for thinking."
"Don't always run with the crowd. The crowd always is following the easiest way. Strike out for yourself. That way is harder and hillier, but when you get near the top, oh boy! But above all, think! Your brain loves to think. It thrives on thinking. Give it a chance. There's nothing like an active brain to keep you feeling good all the time."
So Epictetus would have spoken in the language of the day. First-class advice, don't you THINK?
If Edwards is determined to bring back spirits, why not discard that wat plank and use an orthodox ouija board?

One who enters politics needs a thick skin, and there may be significance in the fact that Pershing is hunting alligators.

Impertinent Poems
"BUT"
By Edmund Vance Cooke.

"I'm very fond of Hazel, but—" I heard a maiden say. Now, maybe Hazel is a nut. Or maybe tout a fait. But when this dulcet phrase occurs, I know that Hazel's getting her's.
"You just must like Geoffrey, but—" I heard a hearty plaint. Perhaps Geoffrey is a nut, Or maybe, he's a saint. No matter. After that beginning, Geoffrey's in for one fine skinning.
"Dear Cicely's such a sweet thing, but—" Two soft lips made remark. And then the gates of mercy shut. The sunlight turned to dark. When you want Cicely, you'll find her Just underneath the sausage-grinder.
"Fine fellow! and my best friend, but—" I've said myself, I own. And then with some sarcastic cut, I've ripped him to the bone. The first phrase simply let me by To smite my best friends, hip and thigh.
"Oh, yes, I like Cooke's verses, but—" What's that? What's that you say? I shrink into my humble hut To make my getaway. No use you flay my every fault And pour on vinegar and salt! (Copyright, 1920, N. E. A.)

These days it is a comforting thing to reflect on a state of prohibition more drastic even than our own. Richard Hakluyt, that historian who preserved many a quaint tale that otherwise seemed sure to perish, tells of the "city of Boghar in the land of Bactria," in his Principall Voyages of the English Nation. It was to the personal account of Anthony Jenkinson, who took a trip down the Volga and around those parts in 1558, that Hakluyt turned for an account of the horrors of prohibition in his day. Let Jenkinson himself tell it in detail.
"There is a little river running through the middle of the said Clite, but the water there of is most unholmesome, for it breedeth sometimes in men that drinke thereof, and especially in them that be not there borne, a worme of an ell long, which lyeth commonly in the legge betwixt the flesh and the skinne, and is plucked out about the ancle with great art and cunning, the Surgeons being much practiced therein, and if shoe breake in plucking out, the partie dieth, and every day she cometh out about an inch, which is rolled up, and so worketh till she be all out."
"And yet it is there forbidden to drinke any other thing than water, & mares milk, and whosoever is found to breake that law is whipped and beaten most cruelly through the open markets, and there are officers appointed for the same, who have authority to goe into any man's house, to search if he have either Aquavite wine or brage, and finding the same, doe breake the vessels, spoile the drinke and punish the masters of the house most cruelly, yea, and many times if they perceive by the breath of a man that he hath drunke, without further examination he shall not escape their hands."
"There is a Metropolitane in this Boghar, who causeth this law to be so strictly kept, and he is more obeyed than the king, and will depose the king, and place another at his will and pleasure, as he did by this king that reigned at our being there, and his predecessor, by the means betrayed him, and in the night slew him in his chamber, who was a Prince that loved all Christians well."

READ 'EM AND LAUGH

When Isidore Finkelstein and Antonio Garibaldi meet in an American schoolroom, great is the opportunity for humor. There are countless stories of the difficulties of alien children to accommodate themselves to our language, of which two stand out as classics.
The first concerns Isidore. The teacher had asked the class to use the word "income" in a sentence and recognized the eagerly-waving hand of Isidore, who proclaimed proudly: "I opened the door and income the cat."

Presently another word, "disarrange," was to be used. Antonio volunteered this: "In da mornin' my fadda he lighta da fire. It smoke and he say, 'Dumma dis a range'." And, while we are about it, can we fail to remember the foreigner who filled out his questionnaire like this: Born: Yes. Business: rotten.
Bathing in Nevada has been pronounced a luxury by the United States government.
Hal Drake went to Racine, Wis., this morning to spend the day on business.

Confessions of a Bride
(Copyright 1920, by The Newspaper Enterprise Association)

"In a world so crammed with sorrow," it's strange that a man and a woman can achieve their supreme happiness merely by being together." I thought as I regarded Jordan Spence and Chrys while they chatted away in complete oblivion to their surroundings. It was my unhappy duty to spoil their small portion of joy by handing them the paper with its dreadful news.

I Fear to Tell Chrys the Awful News of the "Ione's" Fate.

I let them chat on, and smile on while I gathered up my courage. The report that the "Ione" had gone down could not be concealed from J. D. Lorimer's daughter for any length of time. Chrys Lorimer had always prided herself on her ability to face the hard facts of life. She had a pet theory that men and women behave in an emergency according to the habits they have formed under ordinary conditions. If a man or a woman has been accustomed to meet small daily trials calmly, he or she will be brave in the face of tragedy. Only those who shirk their portion of minor hardships will slump like cowards when confronted by accident or sudden death.
Chrys' pride in her personal reaction to the inevitable was about to be tested, but I had to admit that I was a plain coward. I could not force myself to tell her what the paper said.
"Dr. Spence!" I called. Spence crossed the room and I thrust the newspaper into his hand.
His jaw set hard as he grasped the meaning of the big black type at a single glance. Then he adjusted the window shade in order that he might turn his back to Chrys while he framed a question with his lips.
I answered in a whisper: "You tell her!"
He raised his eyebrows as if he doubted my wisdom. "Tell her—at once—she is very brave! She will like you the better for treating her as if you expect her to be brave."
With that he went over to her, I following him. He sat down by her side, opened the paper and spread it out on her knees.
Chrys snatched the meaning from the dreadful heads and then, without a word, she wilted into her lover's ready arms. Her head went down upon his shoulder as if she had been accustomed to seek comfort there for ages and ages, and his face rested on her hair and remained there as if he had given her of his strength and courage a hundred hundred times.
I stood an unwilling spectator at this strange confession of their mutual love.

Was there, I asked myself, even another such silent betrothal?
Not even the thrill of a kiss told them how they adored each other. Something finer than that—her need to lean on him in her dark hour and his need to share her sorrow—had destroyed all the barriers between them and they knew without saying a word to each other.
Nothing could ever part them again. I stole back to my window knowing that they would not miss me. Naturally my mind turned to my last talk with Daddy Lorimer. He had laughed because his valet had been so dismayed at finding his shoes on a high shelf. "The 'Ione' is bound for Davy Jones' locker this trip," Daddy had concluded. It was only a horrid coincidence. I shuddered as I recalled it, but my most poignant regret was connected with the strange "hunch" I had received from Bob.
"Wait! Wait!" I had heard him whisper.
Or did I only imagine that my message came from my husband? Doubtless some persons would take it as a warning from the unseen world—a warning which, had it been obeyed, would have saved the yacht from destruction! Whatever the significance of the premonition, however it had originated, I had done my part in trying to persuade Daddy Lorimer to remain in the harbor another day. And Daddy had refused—for no good reason whatever! "Why do human beings get so perverse over trifles?" I wondered. Being stubborn about very unimportant matters had been the pet hobby of Daddy Lorimer's life. Perhaps that little habit had brought his life to a close!

The veterans voted unanimously to turn over the balance in the treasury to secretary Hevenor for his untiring efforts and the care exercised in the keeping of the records.
Pass Resolutions
Two resolutions were offered and unanimously adopted at the evening session as follows:
"Resolved, that the Thirteenth Illinois Reunion association tender a vote of thanks to our host, M. E. Rice, proprietor of the Nachusa Tavern, for courtesies extended to us for his continued favors in this, our 59th anniversary of the muster of the United States service."
"Resolved, that we tender Sherman

Shaw, the son of our late comrade, Monroe Shaw, our grateful appreciation for a box of cigars given us on this our 59th anniversary of muster to the United States service."

A rising vote of thanks was tendered Comrade C. H. Noble for the manner in which he has provided for the entertainment of the veterans, to which he responded with a few appropriate remarks.
At the close of the business session, the soldiers gathered together and spent some time in relating experiences and telling stories of the 60's.
Col. Dement's Review
During the session yesterday afternoon Henry D. Dement gave a very interesting talk of important historic facts concerning the regiment which were as follows:
"The Thirteenth was one of ten regiments organized by Governor Yates who anticipated a call of 300,000 men to be sent out by President Lincoln. They were accepted into the state service, May 9, 1861, and on May 24 was sworn into the government service. The thirteenth was the first in the United States to be sworn in for three years of war and were sworn in on the morning of May 24, 1861. There had already been six regiments in the Mexican war and six more were mustered into service from different parts of the state and hurried to Cairo, making 12 in number and ours was the Thirteenth.

"The regiment was made up of companies taken from what was then the second congressional district and extended from Chicago west to the Mississippi river. Colonel Wyman was elected by the captains of the companies and a request was sent to Gov. Yates for his services. He was assisting the governor at that time in organizing troops. He had quite a reputation as a drill master, he having drilled the Chicago Light Guards from which company such men as George McClellan and Ambrose E. Burnside.

"Some time was occupied in deciding the sizes or number of men to constitute a company and then a regiment. It was finally decided that 101 men would constitute a company and

1,110 to a regiment. We were without a drill master and Captain Noble, who represented the Dixon company at Springfield and was prominent in the organization of that company learned that Col. Wyman could not leave Springfield but a graduate of West Point was sent to instruct the company. Later Colonel Wyman came and drilled the company with a snap much different than we were accustomed to. Beside the drill it was our duty to stand guard and our drill was the same as given those troops who were stationed at the seat of the war.

Loaded In Stock Cars.
"We left here June 16. We marched from Camp Dement, which was located east of where the present cemetery is located, to the Illinois Central depot and there we were loaded into stock cars with boards crossway in the cars like benches. We went to Caseyville, Ill., near St. Louis, where a strong rebel following were expected to make trouble. I can say that the regiment never marched so well as when they went up that levee at St. Louis with large crowds on both sides.

"On July 7 we went through St. Louis and found the people to be very much excited. Before we left the boat to go into St. Louis we were ordered to fix bayonets, be ready to fire when given the command and then shoot to kill. Several of our men were knocked down by the surging crowd. Col. Wyman complimented his men by saying that they behaved like regular army soldiers. It was rumored about that we were regular army troops and not volunteers, and this was all for the best as we might have had trouble had they known that we were volunteers. We wore the gray uniform at that time.

"We went to Rollo, Mo., the terminus of the Missouri Pacific. Our colonel had been division superintendent of the Illinois Central stationed at Amboy, Ill., and because of his ability as a railroad man, was kept at Rollo, where our regiment was held. General Lyon and Sigel were further in advance and fought the battle of Wilson's Creek. Our colonel was retained to forward supplies to this army and was made post commander. Parts of our regiment escorted supplies that were sent up to Generals Lyon and Sigel. After the battle the Wilson Creek troops came back through Rollo. It was at Wilson's Creek where General Lyon was killed and where General Sigel made a great reputation for himself in the manner in which he maneuvered his artillery and directed its fire so effectively. General Lyon was almost the first general to be killed in about the first battle to be fought. I recall now the members of the Thirteenth gazed on with eyes distended at the heroes and wounded who returned from that battle. The commander on the confederate side was ex-Governor Price of Missouri, who was a partisan officer for the remainder of the war.

Battle of Pea Ridge.
"The regiment remained at Rollo and forwarded supplies to General Curtis who fought the battle at Pea Ridge, one of the best fought battles of the war. General Sigel again won honor by the effective use of his artillery. General Pike commanded the Indians and many of the Thirteenth engaged in this battle. A large army of rebels from Kansas came up and attempted to surround General Curtis. The command was under General Van Dorn. While we belonged to that army we did not get into the fighting.

"We were ordered on a march to Katesville and then through Arkansas to the Mississippi river in the eral Grant was to come down and join us later but we were to surprise Vicksburg.

Doctor Cupid

That love sometimes cures disease is a fact that has been called to the attention of the public by a prominent physician. Love is not, however, the cure for all women. Many a woman is nervous and irritable, feels dragged down and worn out for no reason that she can think of.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives new life and new strength to weak, worn-out, run-down women. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and sick women well. It is now sold by all druggists in the United States in tablets as well as liquid form.

KOKOMO, IND.—"Some time ago I felt 'draggy' and worn-out and greatly in need of a tonic. A friend suggested to me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I had taken other tonics but I never took anything that helped me so quickly as the 'Favorite Prescription.' It was not an unpleasant medicine to take and my whole system seemed to be benefited."—MRS. FLOESIE COOP, 2108 N. Market Street.

CAMPING'S LOTS OF FUN WHEN YOU KNOW HOW

With all the drawbacks of inexperience camping is fun in the end. But here are a few tips for the tourist that will make his camping fun even while it lasts.

The outdoor camper always has visions of a dandy campfire over which the bacon sizzles. But sometimes it rains, even on campers, and it is hard to start a fire. So the two-burner gasoline stove has been provided. The best ones come in a steel box that fits on the running board, and it is ready to make the kettle boil any moment, rain or shine. It is a camping treasure.

That brings us down to foods. Bacon is always the standby. Carry flour and tea and coffee if you must have it, as well as pepper and salt, in friction top cans. Label each. Have the frying pan a big one: one to which a long handle can be added if necessary. Carry coffee in glass collapsible buckets and wash-basins fill the bill. The electric torch has rather supplanted the kerosene lantern with campers. Your rod ought to supply you with fresh meat. Dried apples, peaches and prunes are fine for camp and easy to transport. A few onions and potatoes are sometimes worth taking along. In the touring country cows sometimes are few. Canned cream serves as well. Soluble tea and coffee may be carried if you wish. Coffee in a jiffy is the result. Unless you are an old hand better buy fresh bread as you pass through the towns.

Good goggles are almost a necessity. And with plenty of extra old clothes, the car tuned up, filled with gas, water and oil, you can be off with the sun to The Land of Heart's Desire.

Don't be afraid to ask questions. Everyone is kind to tourists. They want you to think well of their state, or their county or their city. Some towns display big signs at the city limits which say "Welcome" on one side and "Good-bye" on the other. Folks want to be friendly. It pays you, too, to be courteous on the road.

Begin early in the afternoon to look for a night campsite. The big want is a pure water supply. Be sure of that. Don't take chances. The chance farmer that will sell you milk and butter and fresh bread or will trade it to you for bacon or canned peaches will also set you right on the water proposition.

Wood is desirable for a night campfire and so watch out for a camp spot where deadwood or dry wood is available.

able. Select a high, dry spot for the tent if you can find one; smooth and free from stones. A tent in a hollow means a wet floor if it rains. Give preference to a southern exposure. If near trees keep on their edge rather than in their midst.

FOR YOUR COMFORT

To keep ants from food—Put a fence of powdered chalk a few inches from the food and around it.

To keep off mosquitoes—Rub citronella oil on hands and neck.

To remove grease spots—Use cold water, a tablespoonful of ammonia and soap to clean the cloth.

To heat a tent on cool nights—Fill a bucket with stones made hot by the camp fire. Invert in the tent and heat will radiate from it for a long time.

To open fruit jars—Place a hot rock on top of cover for a few minutes.

To remove burnt taste from scorched vegetables or soup—Put in a few pieces of raw potato.

Open Hood Lets in Dust

Many drivers raise their engine hoods in hot weather, believing this will help keep the engine cool. At the same time, however, road dust and dirt will more easily get inside the cylinders, either through the carburetor or the crankcase breather pipe. And the resultant trouble is not worth the preventive step against overheating.

When in a Hurry

Add a small amount of shellac to your water, if your radiator leaks. Pure vinegar will clean the celluloid windows in the curtains of your car.

Butter, oleomargarine or coconut butter will soften road tar and make it easier for removal from the fenders.

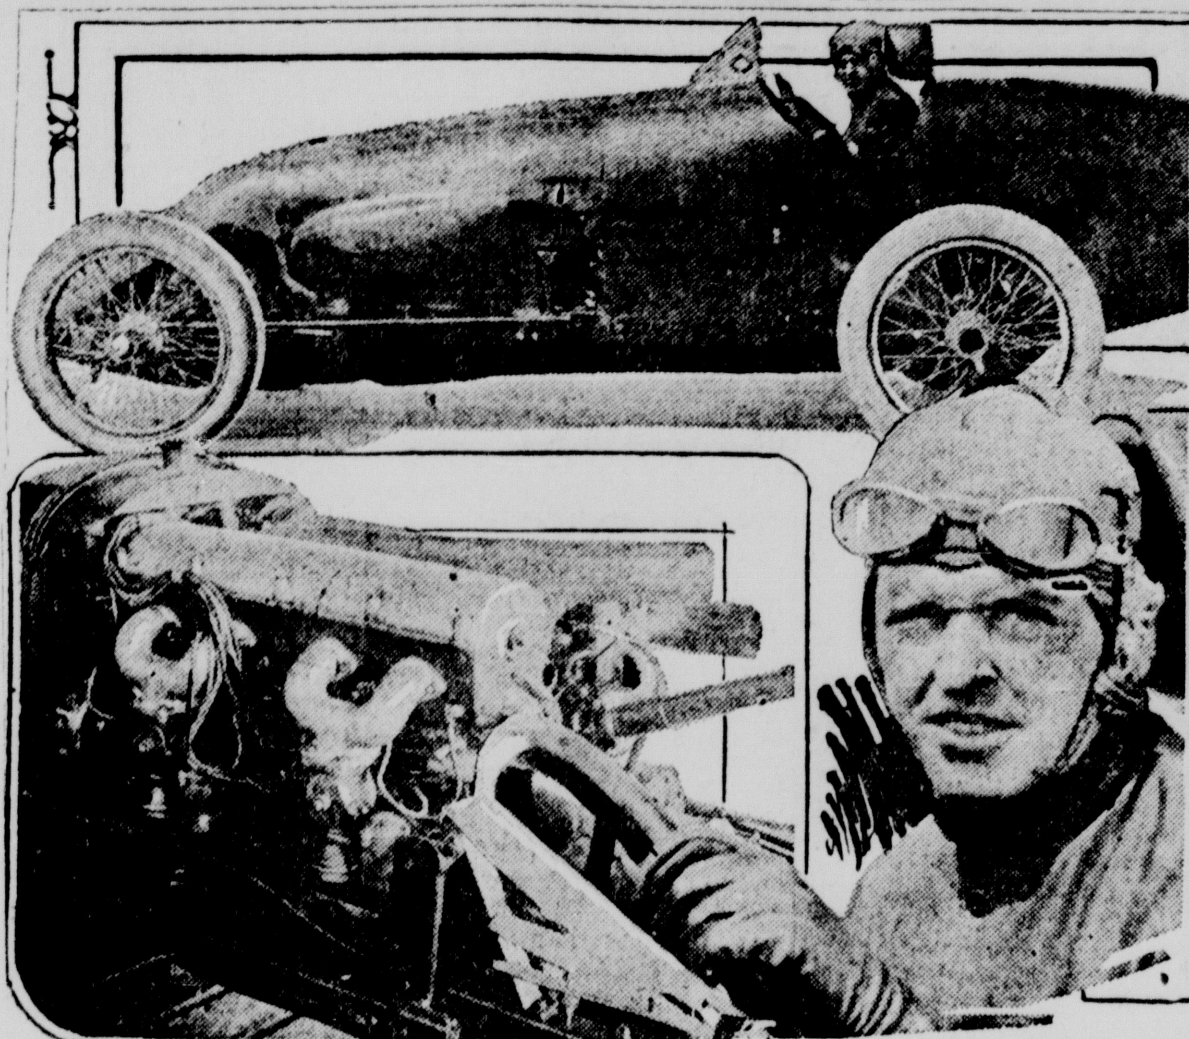

Filter Old Oil

Lubricating oil that has been used until it is dirty can be filtered, and the cleaned oil can be used for oil cups and other external lubricating purposes.

Onion Juice Helps

By rubbing a sliced onion over your windshield, with an up and down motion, you will have a clear vision on a rainy day. Coat the entire surface of the glass with the onion juice.

ALL SET TO COP SPEED PRIZE

There are many "favorites" among the entrants for the eighth international 500-mile sweepstakes on the Indianapolis motor speedway, to take place Memorial Day.

Watch the Spark Lever

To get the efficiency you should out of your engine, regulate the spark to suit the load, grade, road condition and speed of the automobile. Otherwise ignition will take place either too early or too late for smooth running and steady flow of power, and will put an unnecessary strain on the engine.

GOOD BUY FOR ANY POOR AMBASSADOR

London—The plea for an increase in ambassadorial pay would seem to be emphasized by this advertisement which appears in a London paper.

DOCTOR BUSINESS ATTRACTS WOMEN

London—Following the war there has been a rush for knowledge in medical colleges. Many students who had just started their courses, when war broke out, are returning to school and there is a big increase in new students, particularly women.

WANTS TO SAVE WHAT IS LEFT

St. Paul—Because, she claims, her husband has a habit of breaking up the furniture and smashing dishes, Mable Amman has asked the court to grant her what's left of the household goods and a divorce.

A telephone bell was recently rung from a distance of 30 miles by wireless telegraphy.

YOUR BATTERIES IN SUMMER

Local Vesta Representative Advises Motorists on Care of Batteries in Summer

"Most car owners fail to realize the importance of keeping close watch on their batteries during the summer months," said the manager of the Vesta Battery Station at the Wilson Auto Co. garage, local distributor of Vesta batteries today.

"No matter what make of battery you are using," said the manager, "it is especially important to keep plenty of distilled water in the batteries. If the best service is to be obtained from them. Too often the motorist feels that if he fills his battery once he does not need to bother with it again for some time.

"If much driving is done in hot weather it is often advisable to refill the batteries as often as every two weeks. We are glad to perform this important but necessary service for you without charge. We will also test your batteries free and advise you just what condition they are in.

"In caring for batteries, some little repair made in time will often save a great deal of annoyance and a larger expenditure for a new battery later. Vesta service stations everywhere are associated for service and we are equipped to do our share in Dixon.

REO

Electric Starting, Lighting and On Pneumatic Tires

THESE THREE innovations when introduced by the Reo engineers revolutionized Motor Truck standards and multiplied Motor Truck efficiency.

THIS REO "SPEED WAGON" was the first Motor Truck to be equipped with electric starter and electric lights.

AND IT WAS ALSO THE FIRST vehicle designed exclusively for trucking—not a converted touring car, but especially designed for commercial use only—to be equipped with pneumatic tires.

THE VERY MAKERS who are now striving to imitate this Reo "Speed Wagon"—and doing so as to looks, but not in performance!—these very rivals flouted the idea when first introduced by Reo.

WE NO LONGER NEED to explain the tremendous advantages—the greater efficiency—of this type of Motor Truck.

IMITATION—the sincerest form of flattery—is doing that. Rivals are doing more to endorse the Reo idea than even we can do.

SUFFICE IT TO SAY then, that when you have decided you need a speedy, sturdy, economical truck for your own use, prudence dictates that you insist on an original—not an imitation.

THIS REO IS THE ORIGINAL and, having been in service now more than four years—tens of thousands of them—its superiority has been proven beyond cavil.

IF YOU CAN get a Reo "Speed Wagon" you will know you have the best. If you can!

THERE'S THE RUB—demand has always been vastly greater than the output, though that also is the largest in the world of this type of truck.

OUR OWN QUOTA has never been sufficient to supply all who wanted Reos. Tardy buyers, waiting till the last moment to order have had to be denied, much to our regret.

SO THE ONLY WAY to be at all sure of getting a Reo "Speed Wagon" is to order early—now. Don't delay. Demand increases apace while there's a limit to Reo factory capacity.

BETTER SEE ABOUT THIS at once. Delay may result in your having to accept your second choice in lieu of a Reo.

Amboy Rural Mail Carrier Was Found Unconscious on Road

Harold Tubbs, substitute rural mail carrier out of the Amboy postoffice, was found in an unconscious condition east of Amboy in the vicinity of Elmhurst yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock by George Murray and J. E. Miller of this city and hurried to the Amboy hospital. He had finished the delivery of mail on the route, which is carried by his brother, Ray Tubbs, and was returning to the Amboy postoffice when the horse he was driving became frightened and ran away, crashing the closed buggy into a telephone post at the side of the road and almost completely demolishing it. Mr. Tubbs could not get out of the rig and was rendered unconscious

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

She Kept Her Locks Dark and Glossy, with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though at home, is easier and trouble-free. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Conferees Hope to Reach Settlement on Merchant Marine Bill

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, May 22.—House and Senate conferees today began work on the merchant marine bill hoping to smooth out differences between the two measures before congress recesses. Passage of the bill yesterday by the senate ended months discussion. Under the bill ships acquired during and since the war would be sold to American citizens or corporations and

DRINK HOT WATER IF YOU DESIRE A ROSY COMPLEXION

Says we can't help but look better and feel better after an inside bath.

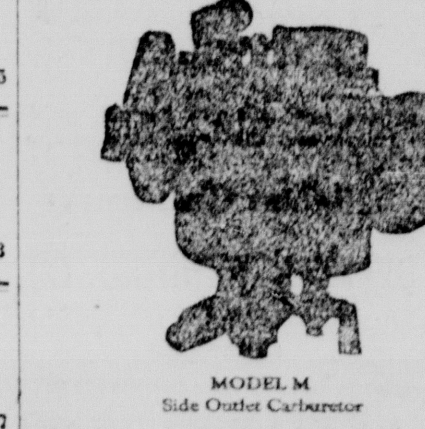

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of irreducible material in the form of ash, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to the sick in their nourishment to maintain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Men and women with sallow skin, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, noisy breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphate hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs little at the drug store but it is well worth the cost, for it just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

Rayfield Carburetors Insure the Minimum Operating Cost Per Mile

MODEL M Side Outlet Carburetor

RAYFIELD Carburetors use a minimum amount of gasoline at all times, thus insuring the lowest cost per mile.

This is due to the superior design, which permits just the right mixture at all ranges of speed.

Control of the mixture is automatic, so that once the Rayfield is set for your car it ordinarily requires no further attention.

Careful manufacture and specially treated materials make for an unusual product mechanically, which is another reason for satisfactory performance.

Let us demonstrate this efficiency on your car.

House Had Adopted Peace Resolution

THE BARGAIN COUNTER

Washington, May 21.—The Republican peace resolution was adopted finally today by the House. It now goes to the President.

The House majority accepted the Senate substitute for the original house resolution, Democrats vainly opposing it.

The vote approving the resolution was announced as 228 to 129, which was taken to indicate that a veto by the President could not be overridden.

Twenty Democrats joined with the Republicans in adopting the resolution while two Republicans, Representatives Kelley, Michigan and Fuller, Massachusetts, voted against it.

Will Search Dozen Liquor Warehouses

Chicago, May 21.—Warrants for the search of a dozen warehouses were issued today by Commissioner Mason, following the arrest last night of seven men who are believed to have handled hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of contraband liquor.

One of the seven, truck drivers for the alleged bootlegging band, is reported to have confessed to federal authorities detailing the names of cafes and cabarets where he delivered more than 700 cases of the whiskey under cover of night.

Planes to Save Four Days in Mail Service

New York, May 21.—A saving of four days for American mail to the orient through postoffice contracts for seaplane delivery of postal matter from Seattle to Victoria, B. C., to begin about July 1, was announced here today by E. N. Gott, general manager of a Seattle aircraft manufacturing company.
